Throughout the years we've been together
To share our smiles and frowns
To help and care for one another
Through many ups and downs

But now our time has finally come
We all must go our separate ways
It will be difficult for some
And others are counting the days

For the day when we will finally get
What we have worked hard for
It will be a day we'll never forget
The day we graduate from Newton North

Many things will change
But please don't go in sorrow
Because we are the Class of '95
The future of tomorrow

—Marco Muniz
Class of '95

Newton North 1995

When nobody's around, Main Street is a straight, seemingly endless tunnel, leading from Elm Road to Hull Street. The dull red tiles of the floor stretch outward. But when the colors, shouts of recognition and the frenzied movements of over 1600 students flood the hall, Main Street adopts a vibrant character.

When we first walked down Newton North's major hallway in ninth grade, we masked our anxieties with loud, adventurous attitudes. We joked about the rumor that the school's architect had also designed prisons in Texas. As we became more comfortable at Newton North, Main Street became the school lounge where students sprawled out, relaxed or ate lunch.

Memories of Main Street include the cheerleaders, snapping to attention and launching towards the foggy sky lights at the foot of the library steps; the Barry, Beals and Riley trees, miraculously clinging to life despite the used chewing gum, poor tests, and school notebooks buried in their soil; the lockers, clinking and rattling throughout the day; and spontaneous guitar music playing between classes. The many signs and posters plastered on the walls, informing students about activities ranging from AIDS awareness to the Fishing Club attested to our active student body. Bake sales, where brownies dropped in price from 50 cents to a nickel in the course of a period, and egg drops, splattering a Main Street stairwell, also livened up the atmosphere.

Main Street was not always a comfortable place for students. The narrow lockers often won tugs of war with students' backpacks and produced tight locker rows where students could find their friends between classes and after school. The color of these lockers and what they stood for often determined student's identities within the school. The various stereotypes of locker areas were sometimes hurtfull to students. On the other hand, these areas did provide smaller communities of friends within the larger school.

Main Street alone is a dull place. But Newton North's students transformed it into a memorable place and gave it its spirit. We slept, studied, skateboarded, cheered, loved, cried and fought here. Few schools have a student-center as intense and diverse. But then again, few schools have a class as special as ours.

"Gotta Get to Homeroom"

As early as seven o'clock each morning, students arrived at Newton North. They attended morning classes including A.M. Chem, A.M. Swim and Close-up, and finished up homework and hung out with friends. Breakfast foods were available in the Student Union, and students often guzzled huge mugs of coffee. While buses dropped off some students, others walked or recieved rides. Still other students drove to school, fighting for the best spot on Hull Street or the Strip. On rainy days, wet footprints tracked down Main Street and on cold days our hair froze on the way to school. However, we managed to dry off and warm up in time for the second homeroom bell.

"Got a Free?..."

Students everywhere cherish free time, and Newton North was no exception. Students found many ways to use the short time between classes. The library was one of the more popular destinations, housing frantic last-minute crammers. Other students hid in the nooks and crannies of Main Street, hoping to evade the watchful eyes of teachers. Still others went outside for a breath of fresh air or a walk to Newtonville. Some used frees to extend their lunch time, packing into cars to avoid the cafeteria. However the time was spent, every student will agree that free blocks were a necessary break from the school day.

"No...Got A Class"

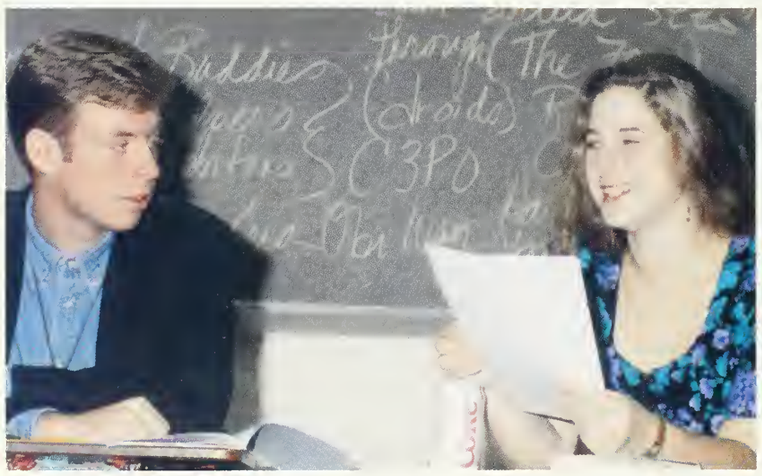

In ninth grade, the school chose most of our classes for us. We counted minutes, sat in the backs of classrooms and hesitated to ask questions. Senior year, however, we designed our schedules and chose more interesting classes. Though notebook margins still accumulated doodles and we reminded teachers to let us out on time, our classes became more meaningful. Subjects we had studied for four years now became relevant to our futures. However, fire alarms still produced a nearly unanimous cheer among stressed seniors.

"Got a Car?"

Lunch period was one of the most anticipated periods of the day. The classes before lunch emptied in a matter of seconds, even faster than during a fire drill. Students ran to their lockers to find friends and lunchmates. Some arranged carpools to McDonalds, Brueggers or other cheap local restaurants. Groups of students were often seen walking to Newtonville to grab a quick bite. Back at school, teachers attempted to shoo students to the Student Union and confiscated any food found on Main Street. On warm days, students were able to enjoy lunch on the mall or the soccer field. Other students sat in the booths, tables, or carpeted floor area of the cafeteria. Some students tried to finish homework due for their next class. Lunchtime often seemed to fly by and students often lingered near their lockers for as others rushed off to class.

"Got the Spirit?"

The costumes worn by students to promote sports events reflect pride in our winning sports tradition at Newton North. Football players wore their uniforms on Fridays in preparation for Saturday games. The swim team donned pajamas and wrapped towels around their waists. The soccer team sported classy shirts and ties. The lacrosse team wore winter hats in the spring. The tiger mascot sloppily ran around at pep rallies, punching the air with its paws.

In addition to being great athletes, Newton North students were great fans. Students wore orange and black wigs and face paint. At pep rallies we shouted, clapped and moved our hips to "The What!" and "The Tiger Beat." We packed the lower gym at big basketball games and pep rallies, pouring onto the court when the spirit overflowed. Our championship teams enabled us to win Dalton awards and various other trophies which we were proudly displayed on Main Street.

Special Events & Drama

It is seven O'clock on a friday night. A crowd swells outside the little theatre as student ushers sell tickets and refreshments. In a back room, before the play begins, actors and student directors psyche themselves up for the performance by chanting zen phrases: "I am a bonfire, not a smoldering ash." Lights and technical workers review their cues. Five minutes after the doors open, another production of Newton North Drama is standing-room-only.

The diversity of productions keeps the plays interesting. This year, one play was an Irish drama; one was a psycho-thriller; one was a full-scale musical; another was courtroom drama. In addition, Newton North has two theatres. The Lasker Auditorium has a sophisticated curtain and lights set-up, and a large capacity, while the little theatre puts a cozy audience right in the action.

A high point of theatre at Newton North is the involvement of students. About half of the plays are student directed. Students supply the essential props and costumes, design the signs, and contact local newspapers to inform the public of shows.

The same student involvement is critical to the success of Newton North's special events. For example, the school's AIDs awareness group, Fighting Aids Through Education (FATE), organized an day of teaching, designed to help students avoid the disease. On Asian Culture day, a line of students on Main Street write peoples' names in Chinese and Japanese. With the help of hardworking students, these special events educated the student body in a fun way. A high point of theatre at Newton North is the involvement of students. About half of the plays are student directed. Students supply the essential props and costumes, design the signs, and contact local newspapers to inform the public of shows.

AIDS Day

In order to educate students about the dangers and necessary safety precautuions of HIV/AIDS and other STD's, FATE and an On-Campus board organized Senior AIDS Day. Seniors met with their homerooms to hear an HIV positive speaker divided into discussion groups . They discussed condom use, modes of trans-

Sports Banquet

At the end of the season, athletes are rewarded at the Post 440 with delicious, nutritious meal. Each team lines up to recieve to individual honors. It is a time for athletes to reflect on the season and take pride in their achievements.

→"I'd rather eat the scrunchie!"—Seniors Jen Miller and Stefanie Kofous compare the food being served with an article of clothing as Junior

"I got my letter!"—Seniors Lauren Sudeall and Audrey Cedrone know that their hard work paid off.

House Managers

The strong theatre tradtion at Newton North is widely supported by the communtity. It is important that patrons of theatre here be met with style at the doors of the Lasker Auditorium and the Little Theatre. House managers take responsibilty for ticket sales and the organization of ushers at every production. With six to eight theatrical performances a year, this can be a thankless task,. Please, when a desperate person runs up and asks you to usher, do it. Hey, free ticket!

"Hi, may I please speak to..."—Junior Becky Krouner orders a prop for the show.

"Don't look at me!"— House Managers Junior Chris Vanderwarker, Sophomore Francis Elliot, Seniors Lexi Dew, Leslie Goldman, and Katherine Barrett hide from the spotlight.

"Where is that prop?"—Seniors Eugene Owens and Jeff Johnson look for a prop.

Halloween

Halloween is a unique holiday at Newton North because the traditional colors of the day (orange and black) also happen to be our school colors! It's like having our own special holiday.

"Where'd ya get that perm?"—Senior Ana Cardenas clowns around on Main Street.

"I thought you were declawed?"—Seniors Alisa Vitti and Gordon Roble get all dressed up.

Student Rally

Since the beginning of our senior year, the Newton teachers have been participating in a work-to-rule job action. Basically, this prohibited teachers from performing "extra" duties in the school, like giving afterschool help, planning field trips, and staying on campus longer than normal hours. This affected students enormously, especially the seniors. Many students felt like screaming out "We ain't gonna take it!," and some even went so far as to voice their opinions at a rally at the Ed. Center.

"Ready to rally" — Seniors Andy Port and Deron Charkoudian begin their assault.

"Resolve the contract!"—Seniors Abby Gray, and Lexi Dew express their discontent.

Thanksgiving Day Game

"Ready to give 110%"—The team sits with their adoring fans.

"Go Tigers!"—Seniors Keith O'Neil, Sarah Griffin and Tom Kahuna get psyched.

The Thanksgiving Day Game is always a special event, but this year it took on added significance. It marked the 100 year anniversary of the Newton North/Brookline rivalry and with a victory Newton North would earn a Super Bowl birth. The day was brutally cold as fans and alumnae filled the stands. The field was painted to commemerate the 100 year rivalry.

"Brrrrrrrr..."—Seniors Kate Cosgrove, Dina Goldwasser, Kate Baseman and Kristie Lynch cuddle up against the cold.

"Gobble, Gobble!"—The crowd freezes their feathers off at the game

Clouds

The Newton North production of "The Clouds," by Aristophanes, filled the Lasker Auditorium with rowdy laughter. The actors and directors 'modernized' the play and replaced many of the characters' names with personalities in the Newton community. One of the gods was named "Marinius," a takeoff of Principal Marini. Spoofed Newton villages, like "Newtonius Southus," and references to Newton politics, made the play witty and engaging. The production's spontaneity, with a character addressing the audience about the playoff chances of the New England Patriots, the director coming on stage to correct an intentional mistake, and the whole cast breaking into segments of rock songs, took "The Clouds" to a 'Monty Python' level of comedy.

"Weeee!"— Senior Rachel Werkman having a swing.

↓↓"Put'em up!"— Seniors Ben Berwick and Colin Metz duke it out.

"He doesn't have a duck!"—Senior Matt Cliford does not have the bird that Senior Rachel Werkman is looking for.

"What are you looking at?" — Seniors Matt Clifford and Rachel Werkman having philosophical discussions.

Dancing at Lughnasa

In "Dancing at Lughnasa," a Brian Freil drama set in Ireland, Newton North actors moved a packed little theatre audience. The play portrayed a group of four sisters which had been living in close quarters for many years. One sister loses her job, creating financial woes for the family. Another meets the man who had left her with her young son. Another ventures away from the family to encounter forbidden love with a man from the town.

During the play, the women come to the sad realization that their lives haven't changed in years, and that they don't have anyone but each other to care for them. The play poignantly conveyed each character's temptations and constraints. Seniors Abby Gray, Leslie Goldman, Lexi Dew, Kate Holbein, Matt Clifford and Andrew Joseph Hamlen were cast members.

Oklahoma! was the second musical performance in seven years. It included more than 40 people in the entire cast making it the biggest production of this year. In addition, an orchestra of fifteen accompanied the cast. While it may be known as a comedy, the actors played serious scenes as well. The director, Matt Lahey, was a North graduate.

VERONICA'S ROOM

"Veronica's Room," by Ira Levin, created a building suspense that ended only after the final shrill scream. The small student directed cast of four performed the one-act play in the little theatre with no props changes. In the early scenes, set in the seventies, a woman and her date have come home to an elderly couple's house. The woman is shocked to find that the elderly couple has somehow snapped into the roles of people from 1929. The two attempt to persuade the woman that she too is from their era. It is revealed that they have conspired to brainwash the woman, who eventually succumbs to their torture. The play raises the question: "Could we also be manipulated in this way?"

The Courtroom drama "Twelve Angry Men" brought a crowded audience right into the decision process of a murder case. The action takes place in a stuffy jury room. Initially, it seems to be an 'open and shut' case. Only one juror expresses doubt about the trial. The man on trial is from the slums, which brings out the contrast between the racist attitudes of some jurors and the slum and foreign upbringing of others. Slowly, more jurors recognize a doubt in the case, until the last man succumbs to the pressure of the others. In the final scene, juror #8, who saw doubt before anyone else, snaps shut the switch-knife that was the murder weapon. This clever direction reminded the audience of the earlier assumption that it was an "open and shut" case.

←"Can't we all just get along?"— The eleven jurors listen intently to senior Colin Metz as he expresses his opinion.

"Yours, Anne" is a musical based on the diary of Anne Frank, with music by Michael Cohen. It is the story of two Jewish families hidding from the Nazis in an attic above a warehouse and how they lived and struggled together for two years. "Yours, Anne" was completely student directed both musically and theatrically. The overature was even written by senior Eddie Chlamtac. "Yours, Anne" was the first production at Newton North to be honored by doing an additional performance due to popular demand.

Academics

When we pushed open the doors of Newton North High School in September of 1991, we could only guess what lay ahead for us between the walls of this big brick building. Learning our way around this massive building has been the least of our struggles, although many new teachers would tend to disagree. The small book of class listings has remained overwhelming to most seniors despite the fact that it has shrunk successively each year as well as having its cover changed in color from an attractive spruce green to a garish fluorescent yellow. As seniors, we have been forced to decide whether we would become culinary arts majors, specialists in art or music, or whether to focus on more traditional subjects. Each concentration available at Newton North High School is challenging and rewarding in some way. Although few seniors would define their high school experience by the classes they have completed, the majority of the time we have spent in Newton North High School has been devoted to academics. One thing that we all have in common is gratitude to our school for providing us with so many opportunities for different kinds of education and the high quality of all the programs offered at Newton North High School. We have all worked hard and gained knowledge that will serve us in the years to come, whether we choose to go to college, or employ the skills we have already learned as we begin a profession.

Technical Vocational Classes

The Technical Vocational program at Newton North is a great chance to develop skills for jobs directly after graduating from high school. The programs that are available for students include carpentry, drafting, auto body, auto mechanics, electrical and graphic arts. Many students dedicate up to half their schedules to a single program which often earns them credit for college level courses. Others take technical vocational classes twice a week as a minor. These classes contribute much to the rest of the school. When the layout of the student union changed, the carpentry classes supplied new tables, both for eating and for playing chess. Drafting students designed the architectural changes that took place during our sophmore year. Auto mechanics students fix teachers' and students' cars.

Throughout the years of its existence, the Technical Vocational program has spiced up the course offerings at Newton North High School and delivered a valuable opportunity to all students to become proficient in various skills that are needed in today's job market.

"My arms are getting tired!"—Senior Gary Roberts tries to fix a car.

Art

The Art Department teaches pupils how to work with many different mediums ranging from clay to charcoal. The students who work in the art studios have always been a talented group of people and many have won awards in the past. In addition to the traditional arts department, there is an extensive photography program in which students learn how to use complicated cameras and many achieve a high level of knowedge about photography before they graduate.

Students who have never taken a music course as well as the most advanced violinists will find an opportunity to expand their musical expertise at Newton North. The pride which students take in their work is reflected in the excellent musical tradition at Newton North. In addition to peforming for their friends and peers in concerts here at Newton North, students travel worldwide to share their talents in such honored places as the Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, France and St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, Italy.

Faculty

During our separate experiences at Newton North high School, the faculty has guided every one of us. Some seniors take away lasting personal relationships with faculty members who have reached out to them and helped them through rough times. Every senior takes away new knowledge imparted to them by the faculty at Newton North. For this particular class, it has been tough for the faculty to devote themselves to us as fully as they may have wished due to the fact that they been forced by the city to go on Job Actions twice during our four years here. However, each member of the faculty is enthusiastic about their role as an educator, and we will remember them for all the wonderful things they have done for us.

"So what exactly was `courtly love'?"—Mr. Rossiter waits for his class to dazzle him with their mastery of their reading.

"And the donuts are great too!"—Principal Jim Marini finds one more thing to love about Newton North.

"So, how about a deal?"—The teachers appreciate Burt Weiner's negotiating efforts.

Clubs

Time passes slowly here at Newton North. We drag from class to class, trying to get through the six blocks so we can get to our rehearsals, practices, and homework. Five days a week, six classes a day, fifty minutes a class. 2:30. Finally. But, Tuesdays and Thursdays are lightened by precious X-Block. Some use the time to study or chat with their friends, but many use the opportunity to participate in the many clubs at Newton North.

Clubs at Newton North act as an important supplement to our strenuous academic lives. How many of us have gone from our mind-numbing math class to a relaxing jaunt on the frisbee field? Or used our knowledge of history to solve difficult political and social problems?

No one was quite sure Club Day would occur this year. However, at 1:40pm on October 11, 1994, the Student Union filled with students. Freshmen used the opportunity to discover all that Newton North has to offer extracurricularly, and upperclassmen searched for something new and different to complement their high school careers.

Unfortunately, with this year's work action, many of our favorite activities have had difficulty getting started. It is a strong indication of our dedication that so many clubs overcame the hardships and continued to meet without advisors and leadership, whether it was in students' homes or the student union.

Many of us will remember high school by the activities we participated in outside of the classroom. Thankfully, we have leaders within the student body who have been determined to keep clubs alive and functioning. Tiger Pride pervades all aspects of our lives here, and the following pages are dedicated to the spirit which keeps this school thriving.

Newtonian

↓"Seniors: The trip to Montreal is NOT a school-sponsered activity!" — Student Life editor Michelle Kalowski reads the morning announcements.

→"Mind your P's and Q's!"—Copy editors, Emily Nelson and Paul Freedman proofread an article.

The yearbook began its organizational meetings in the summer of 1994. With its first deadline looming in October, the color pictures were first on the agenda. Student Life editors Jen Sanchez and Michelle Kalowski were the first to feel the pressure on staff. With helpful encouragement from the editor-in-chief, Becca Schulman, they struggled to find the perfect blend of pictures, style, and humor for the most widely appreciated section of the book. As for the rest of the staff, they also had their high-stress moments in room 4182.

The staff was greatly aided by the new equipment purchased this year, which included a new computer and printer which are much more convenient to use than the old. "They're so fast," said senior Becky Matloff, layout editor, who was one of the most industrious members of staff, and who certainly used the equipment most.

There are also some new features in the Newtonian this year. In addition to the use of "nifty" three-dimensional text, a new section was added, Drama and Special Events. The full-color current events section is sixteen action-packed pages and, in the sports section, you can find a tiger flipbook at the bottom of the page. Faculty advisor, Chris Murphy, says this is "the best yearbook ever!"

"Wow! Free tickets!"— Meg Hawkins, co-sports editor, opens an exciting piece of mail.

↑"I'm feeling a little woozy."—Becca "The Chief" Schulman catches the fever.

Newtonite

Volume 73 Newtonite editors and managers produced 16 issues for the Newton North community from January 1994 through January 1995. Give us peace, bread, and land," students said. In response, the Newtonite contributors gave the best journalism they could give.

The important happenings which were covered included the teachers' job action and its effects, education reform measures, and the death of Mayor Mann. The Newtonite kept its readers informed about athletics, arts, and features ranging from acupuncture to vegetarianism. They illuminated the issues relating to the opening of Main Street and explained why one second semester vacation was not enough. They covered incoming freshman elections and the monumental Thanksgiving Day football game.

Gwendolyn Shufro was the editor-in-chief; Jenny Feldon, Adam Gerson and Darragh Nolan the managing editors. Other Class of '95 staff members were Ben Berwick, Adam Cashman, Rob Cerra, Lara Cohen, Kate Cosgrove, David DeCew, Sarah Griffin, Nikysha Harding, Gabe Johnson, Michael Laursen, Nicole LeBlanc, Jon Orren and Dawn Spechler.

←"The Thinker"—After logging in many hours at the Newtonite, senior Mike Laursen has become a statue.

'Conjunction Junction, what's your function?"—Senior Jon Orren proofreads.

"Look, a power-pellet!"—Seniors Sarah Griffin, Gwen Shufro and Dawn Spechler cheer on Jenny "Ms. Pacman" Feldon.

THOUGHT PRINTS 1995

"Thoughtprints", Newton North's art and literary publication, is created entirely by students. Established in 1965, one year after the split of Newton High School, "Thoughtprints" is celebrating its thirtieth year.

Each year, two issues of "Thoughtprints" are published: a calendar in the winter and a magazine in the spring. Students can become involved by submitting their literature or art to be reviewed by the "Thoughtprints" staff. "Thoughtprints" encourages all students to submit material.

The other way students can become involved is by attending meetings to discuss the submissions. During the meetings, the artist or author is kept anonymous to ensure an unbiased evaluation of the submission's quality. At the end of each discussion, the staff decides, by vote, whether or not the piece will be published. Students do not need to submit to attend meetings, nor do they need to attend meetings to submit.

This year's editors were Kate Holbein, editor-in-chief; Daniel Kirschner, literary editor; Emily Rosenberg, art editor; Dan Thomases, production manager; and Emily Morganti, managing editor. Gary Elliot, the faculty advisor, worked with the "Thoughtprints" editors and members to create the winter and spring publications. Over fifty students were on the art, literary and production staffs, and benefited from having a creative outlet through which they could submit and discuss art and literature.

Tiger Magazine is a television publication which is produced by Advanced Television Production students. Under the guidance of faculty advisor Lynne Rossman, the students write and produce scripts, combining the elements of lighting, camera, and acting to send a message to their audience. The group produces one show a month which airs four times on Thursday evenings at 7 pm on Cable 13. "The purpose of the show," says senior Keith O'Neil, "is to give the community feedback and show what's happening." Serious pieces, which are usually about current events within the school, are mixed with more humorous bits from the students' imaginations.

Insight

Insight staff: freshmen Daniel Keshet, Jon O'Brien, senior Ezra Keshet, Dan Kirshner, Liz Schulman, sophomores Bob Hatcher and Steve Hodgdon.

Insight is Newton North's semi-regular literary/entertainment magazine featuring research articles, humor columns, art work, album and movie reviews, short stories and editorials. Articles are written by a staff of student writers and edited by students. Fun. Interesting. Thought-provoking. Insight.

Recently, on our latest trip scouring the earth for material for our exciting new edition of Insight magazine, we, your intrepid editors, Daniel Kirschner and Ezra Keshet, found ourselves in a bit of a quagmire in the distant jungle of Defibrillated Anterieur Nefarious, yet Gentle, Egregious Rhinoceri, or DANGER, for short. We had ventured deep into the heart of the jungle in search of the eccentric writer in a jungle clearing by the river. However, on the way into the heart of the jungle, around the pancreas, we had had occasion to run into our old enemy, Archibald LeCochon, nemesis, the infamous Rhinoceros trainer and French cook. We took three looks at his evil smile and realized that we were in for a wild ride through the bowels of evil that only a mind as demented as Archibald's could have conceived.

A week later, tied to a bamboo stalk overlooking a scenic five-story tumble, we lay with our eyelids stapled open, watching Archibald reenact the battle of Water loo, using only Rhinoceri.

"This is worse than the time the car broke down on the way back from Kinko's" I whispered into Daniel's ear.

"Wait," Daniel cried, his heroic eyes flashing with unbridled stoicism. "I have an idea. I still have a few hundred copies of Insight left over from our last printing. I shall distribute them freely to the Rhinoceri, as a fulfillment of our Communist ideal."

"Free the oppressed Rhinoceri!" we ululated, scattering the precious magazines over the alleged battlefield. The Rhinoceri stopped their strategic snorts and began perusing the many-spendoured leaflets surrounding them. Napoleon particularly enjoyed Matt Brown's last piece before he realized that it was making fun of the French.

"Stop! What are you doing?" raged Archibald. "Years of training down the proverbial crapper. You...you animals!"

Meanwhile, Napoleon, still mad about the bad press the French get, not to mention that emblem of imperial decadence, EuroDisney, consumed Archibald with a glass of red wine (which goes best with acidic meals). Hearing his raucous belch, we knew our worst troubles were over. However, we still needed to find a way down from our precarious perch.

Luckily, the Duke of Wellington had ordered tacos for elevenses, and our old friend "Hugo" drove up to the battle site for delivery. He rescued us, gave us his latest submission, and treated us to his newest creation, tacos, a la mode. Unfortunately for Daniel, he was out of chocolate cookie dough ice cream.

Once again, the Insight Editors triumphed over evil.

"We'll be back," we would have cried had we not promptly graduated.

Asian Culture

→"Room for two!"—Seniors Jihye Park and Jean Kong cuddle up to the camera.

"One of these things is not like the other"—Juniors Leslie Yee and Paula Chu, senior Laurance Lee and junior Suzanne Chan.

The Asian Culture Club brings together all students who are interested in learning about different heritages. In the spring, club members attended the Second Annual Conference for Asian Pacific American Youths. From this conference, they planned to come back and hold their own Asian Culture Day in May. The club's goal is to educate people about different cultures and to show the diversity in Asian cultures that many don't see. This year's officers of the ACC are co-presidents juniors Paula Chu and Suzanne Chan; Secretary junior Leslie Yee; and treasurer senior Lawrence Lee.

Latino

→"You've got to be kidding!"— Freshman Leiza Cypriano, and sophomores Marcela Nicola and Ana Contreras aren't buying it.

Newton North's Latino club was newly founded this year by juniors Paulita David and Eduardo Cardenas. Despite the teacher work action, it has been a complete success. The club caters to students with Latin American backgrounds. It had plans for a concert in May, and had various activities such as movies, a field trip to the Omni theatre, and a Valentine's Day party. Club members use meetings as an opportunity to discuss their countries of heritage.

←"Keep thinking Ed!"—The Latino club organizers, juniors Eduardo Cardenas and Paulita David, brainstorm ideas for new club events.

Italian

"Ciao!"—The Italian Club members, juniors Tanya Bauer, Sarah Turner, Laureu O'Hare, senior Beth O'Hare, and junior Gina Marzelli, do as the Romans do.

The Italian club at Newton North is dedicated to the promotion of the study of the Italian culture. The diversity at Newton North increases the importance of multicultural understanding in the community. The prominence of students with an Italian background gives it a special importance as an educational tool. Italian Club members also involve themselves in community service efforts within the Italian community.

French

The purpose of the French Club is to provide a pleasant, fun, and informal atmosphere in which students can speak French. With money raised through bake sales and candy sales, the club has purchased French videos, books and comic books. The purpose of such items are to bring French culture into Newton North in an amusing and enjoyable way. Under the advisory of Bernie Flanagan and his superb crepe-making, the club uses the International Cafe to cook French cuisine.

The club's culminating event is a trip the "Maison Robert", a fancy French restaurant in downtown Boston. The officers have tried to make this year special for all. Seniors Rebecca Roberts and Alisa Beyninson are co-Presidents, and seniors Martha Bloom and Wendy Chou are co-vice-presidents.

The president this year is senior Lauren Sudeall, with junior Sarah Bookbinder as vice-president, and junior Nellie Zupancic as secretary.

Student Faculty Administration

A guiding force, and the students' voice in the government of the school, the Student Faculty Administration meets weekly to make decisions on some of the administrative aspects of Newton North High School. Senior represntatives, Jon Glazier, Becky Berman, co-chair, and Kate Bromberg, alternate, have served as examples of leadership for the underclassmen. Juniors Paul Goldstein and Leah Furst, with alternate junior David Tuchman, have the spent the year working to improve the school environment. The Class of 1997 is represented by Jessica Leblier and Noam Schimmel, with alternate Becky Brink. The Senior Homeroom was created in September of this school year as a way to form a definite class committee and establish a consistent meeting time. Like the morning homerooms of the past, it is an alternative to regular homeroom. Announcements are made about all Senior events and fundraisers. The committee now consists of over eighty students who make up a steady core of enthusiastic seniors. With a full schedule this year, the homeroom makes it possible for the officers to receive help from other seniors, as well as get the necessary feedback on new ideas. The weekly meetings have successfully brought together seniors who want to get involved and continue to allow for more efficient cooperative planning.

Interhouse

Interhouse Council meets on the first Monday morning of every month in the library. The officers are junior Rebecca Udler and senior Alissa Vitti, co-presidents; junior Jesse Koff, recording secretary; senior Stephanie Koufos, corresponding secretary; and senior Dan Thomases, message board operator.

The officers discuss and schedule upcoming events and fundraisers with club officers, class officers, and sports captains in the school. Events scheduled this year have included Club Day, the senior dance, T-shirt sales, bake sales and candy sales.

Interhouse serves the important function of a clearing house through which all activities pass. Without its aid, the school would be an endlessly complex place with candy sales all at once, and four clubs having bake sales on the same day.

Student Union Organization

There have been many changes made in the cafeteria in the past four years. The murals have been repainted, many of the bench-style seats have been replaced with booths and tables, and a new system of flow for the food lines has been created, just to name a few. The initiative for these changes can be attributed to the Student Union Organization, which is co-chaired by juniors Charlotte Cahill and Rosalie Tepper.

"We are basically here to improve the Student Union," said Charlotte Cahill. By adding more vending machines, new trash receptacles and carpeting, the Student Union is coming closer and closer to the plan which the committee designed, which includes a performance stage. In the coming years, the committee will continue to work towards it's goal of creating a more comfortable atmosphere for the students at NNHS.

Election Committee

The job of the Elections Commission is to organize and run all the schoolwide elections. Twice a year, students at Newton North campaign for positions for their class as well as school wide positions for their class like Student Advisory Council and Student Faculty Administration board.

This year's Election Commissioner are Assistant to the Principal Gail Stein and student commissioners Jon Glazier and Leslie Adelson. With the help of volunteers, a successful voting day takes place in the lower gym. This election commission has worked hard to solve the problems of past elections. They have proved very successful as voting attendance is up and more candidates are seeking positions.

S.A.D.D.

Along with the privilege of getting your license in the later years of high school life, comes the responsibility of getting yourself and your friends home safely. Teen-age drinking and driving has taken many lives, including those of Newton North students, and the SADD chapter here has taken it upon themselves to help the prevention of more unnecessary deaths.

Seniors Andrew Port and Matt Dundas are co-presidents of "Students Against Drunk Driving" at North, and senior Loretta Kwan is the chapter's treasurer. Their ideas for keeping their peers safe include placing a wrecked car behind the school on prom night to remind seniors not to drink and drive. The club officers also plan to sell T-shirts and key chains to teachers and students. This model organization has served an imporant role in the education of students in the Newton North community.

The Gay/Straight Alliance club sought to provide a safe learning environment at Newton North regardless of sexual orientation. They worked to educate students about the issues that are involved with seeking one's sexual identity. They sought to have various curriculum reflect the complexity of a gay or lesbian lifestyle.

With president Jenica Dover and vice-president Ruthie Harris at the helm, the group plans events to enlighten and educate the entire school. BLAC members coordinated Black History Day where African-American speakers gave inspirational talks. Plans are also in the works for the second annual Gospel Concert.

Junior Statesmen of America

Junior Statesmen of America (JSA) is the largest student-run organization in the country. This year it has arrived at Newton North. Each week, fifteen to twenty dedicated members come to debate and discuss current events. Issues ranging from condom distribution to the death penalty are argued vehemently by the students. JSA is not just a speech club where discussions are carried on for the sake of discussing. Rather, members debate the isses because they have an opinion conmcerning them that they wish to articulate. This is the organization's ultimate goal: to provide a forum for student expression that would be unavailable to them otherwise. Meetings range in structure from the more formal debate to the more informal thought talk.

Model United Nations

Model United Nations is composed of students who are interested in international affairs and the workings of the United Nations. The club attended two conferences this year, one at Harvard in December, and another in New York City in March. When not at conference, members of the club meet Monday evenings and discuss issues in conference format or work on impromptu speaking.

At conference, students from around the world gather to simulate delegations. They are divided into a number of different commitees, such as the International Atomic Energy Agency and the United Nations Children's Fund. For five days, the delegates discuss topics of recent international importance, attempting to compromise with countries of opposing views until a resolution is created. Senior and club co-president Becky Berman says "The most important thing Model U.N. taught me is how to think fast on my feet." People come to Model U.N. to have fun and to enjoy the company of others who are interested in similar things. When a M.U.N.er goes to conference, he meets individuals from all different backgrounds, but each person understands the underlying importance of global communication.

At 6:30 am on some Saturday mornings, the members of the Speech Team show up on Elm Street. Many meets are over an hour away, and they start at 8 am, so an early start is imperative. Packing into the cars of dedicated parents and unenthusiastic seniors, the team heads off onto the highways and byways of Massachusetts. Once at the meet, people break up and go to their events. The judges can be fiercely critical. Sophomore Brett Yellen emerged from a round of storytelling, less than pleased with his performance. "Here was me, 'Hi, I know how to tell a story.' Here was the judge, 'Buh-bye.'" Despite the stresses of competition, the Tigers keep their sense of humor at all times, and when they go to awards ceremonies, North never leaves empty-handed.

Mock Trials

Starting in October, the members of Mock Trials, new and old, meet and share stories about their Mock Trials experiences to bring the club closer together. In December, they receive their first case and begin working on it. Participants rehearse their testimonies and cross examinations until they have the case completely imbedded into their minds, and then they rehearse some more. Competition is fierce at the trials, and it is difficult to end the season without losing. However, as is apparent from the number of participants in Mock Trials, students enjoy more about the experience than just winning.

↓"What a fascinating case!"—Junior Paul Goldstein is enthralled with the newest challenge to the Mock Trials team.

Amnesty International

↓"You know you want to!"— Amnesty members, senior Abby Gray, junior Carolyn Berk, senior Simone Brandt, and junior Scarlet McCarthy, use their winsome smiles to lure new members.

Recently, Nelson Mandela was released from a South Africa prison, and went on to be elected president. People all over the world are held in prison for years because their political views are contrary to those espoused by the government they are living under. Amnesty International is a world-wide organization which utilizes the power of the pen to free these prisoners of conscience. The Newton North chapter members spend time reading about, and writing in protest for, prisoners of war. They also watch movies about human rights, and raise money for the larger organization. The year's biggest fund-raiser, Jamnesty, featured bands from both the city's high schools.

International

The main goal of the International Club is to establish a sense of commonality between students of different cultural, ethnic, and racial backgrounds. The club attempts to enhance the cultural awareness of its members, and to learn about the many cultures and people that make this world fascinating and diverse. It is their hope that others will continue the club's tradition after the graduation of seniors Ada Leung, Jin Zhang and Sharon Wong, who are this year's officers.

Orange Shield is Newton North's volunteer orgainization. Under the leadership of seniors Becky Berman, Leslie Adelson, and Ana Cardenas and junior Kristen Cannistraro, Orange Shield volunteers prepared and served meals at Rosie's Place (a shelter for women and children), visited the elderly at Mediplex nursing home and shoveled snow for the elderly. In addition, Orange Shield members helped out around Newton North in the Records Office, the House Offices and the Library.

Interact

Many students at Newton North participate in community service activities, and Interact provides an opportunity for them to volunteer with their peers. Interact members participated in the City Year "Serve-a-thon" and decorated holiday spoons to be sold to businesses and organizations in Boston.

This year's officers, seniors Stefanie Liang, Lauren Sudeall, and Becky Berman, are responsible for the organization of all of the club's activities. Next year's officers will be juniors Rachel Cymrot, Scarlet McCarthy and Amy Linsenmayer.

Mediation

P.A.W.S. (Postive Agreement WorkS) was initiated by the Newton North High School Human Rights Committee in 1987 as a part of its efforts to improve the school atmosphere. Through mediation, those involved hope to provide a method by which to solve problems involving peer conflcits. The program helped many students to resolve disputes, and continues to expand.

"Quit shoving!"—The school's trained mediators, senior Andrew Port, juniors Paul Goldstein, David Tuchman, Leah Furst, Rachel Zar-Kesslar, Illysa Parker, Michelle Hartog, senior Rebecca Epstein and junior Emily Case, cram in for a good shot.

These helpers attend homeroom twice a week with their freshmman homeroom in an attempt to ease the difficult transition to Newton North.

Peer Leadership

The Peer Leadership program is designed to train high school students to educate others about the dangers and facts of drugs and alcohol. The D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program is implemented city-wide to fifth graders, and Peer Leaders visit those classrooms to help inform the students about the problems surrounding drug and alcohol use.

"Hey you, sign up for Crew!"—Senior Dina Goldwasser encourages new membership at Club Day.

When the crew shells hit the Charles every September, it becomes apparent that crew is one of Boston's favorite sports. A classic college sport, Newton North has also been active on the river scene for several years with a community rowing organization. In both the fall and the spring, Crew club members row every afternoon, starting at the boathouse which is located at the M.D.C. skating rink on Nonantum Road. The discipline of working with a team in synchronized physical exertion is a fulfilling and exhausting experience.

Ski

←"This isn't Sunday River!?"— The Ski Club officers, senior Cristina Rudden, and juniors Leah Furst and Ilyssa Parker would rather be hitting the slopes.

If you live in New England, you've probably been skiing. A favorite winter sport, skiing is not only good exercise, it can be a lot of fun to send yourself hurtling down a mountain side. This year's Ski club has been highly successful despite setbacks suffered from the work action. The officers, Christina Rudden, Sietske Brown, Illysa Parker, Ken Roberts, and Leah Furst, organized a day trip to Killington which was attended by thirty-seven club members. It was deemed a success, since no one was lost, no one hit a tree, and no one fell off the ski lift.

Fishing

The Newton North Fishing Club is the first of its kind at Newton North High School. Club members travel on four different trips during the school year, each to a different area of Massachusetts. Members both admire and respect the waterways that are fished, protect the environment around them, and practice any existing catch-and-release laws to ensure the survival of the many species of fish in the area.

Along with regular canoe trips down parts of the Charle River, the Fishing club ventured out twice to the Atlantic to try their luck with some real monsters! Both veteran and amateur anglers are welcome to participate in any of the trips, with experience definately not being necessary when it comes to reeling in the big one!

The Newton North High School Hiking Club will continue to be a means for camping, hiking, and rafting trips in the years to come. The club was founded in 1993 with the idea of creating an opportunity to bring people with interests in outings and environmental protection together. Not suprisingly, the club focuses most of these outings on hiking. The club emphasizes the philosophy, "Did it, done it, do'in it tomorrow."

Ultimate Frisbee is a sport which has been popular on college campuses for years. Newton North players are certainly prominent. A competitive version of traditional "disk tossing", Ultimate is always active and occasionally full-contact. After school in the fall and spring, the field on the Mall is swarmed onto by avid Frisbee fans. Rain or shine, the players are at the mercy of the wind and the elements when it comes to guiding the flight path of brightly colored plastic disks. You can recognize this year's players by the bright orange "Tigger" shirts they wear.

Rock Climbing

The Rock Climbing Club has been active at North for the past nine years. Senior Libby Eisenbraun is this year's coordinator and senior Dan Thomeses is their Interhouse representative. Climbing almost every weekend in the fall and spring, the group travels to nearby Hammond Pond Woods in Chestnut Hill. At the end of the year, they take a more adventurous excursion into the wilds of northern New England.

The club organized an egg drop at the beginning of the year. Students tried to build the lightest contraption that wouldn't splatter yolk all over the walls after falling four stories onto a concrete floor. Amazingly, the winner was a single sheet of paper, rolled into a cone, with the egg placed inside the top.

For the rest of the year, the club prepared for the Science Olympiad, an interscholastic science competition. Some members built devices to enter in the "build-ahead" portion of the competition, while others studied for other hands-on and theoretical events. The Science Bowl team had big shoes to fill this year, since last year's team won third place at the Nationals. The Science Bowl is an interscholastic science "quiz-show" format competition, in which two teams of five students go head-to-head, buzzing in to answer difficult questions about science and math. The team practiced using a home-made buzzer system.

Chess

Chess: the game of kings. A more challenging game has not been found for the intellectual mind. Young players have simple matches of jumping horses and battling kings. For the older, more experienced player, the game is filled with hidden ruses and carefully concealed strategies, turning the chessboard into a labyrinth of complexities which boggle the mind. Students in the Newton North Chess club gather Mondays after school in Mr. Elliot's "secret room" on the fourth floor to accept the challenge of their fellow chess-mates.

Members build projects independently or in groups, share their electronics knowledge with others to help solve problems, and repair electronic equipment for the school. Seniors Ara Knaian and Norm Adams were the co-presidents, and senior Bonnie Tom was the treasurer.

V.I.C.A.

The Newton North division of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America participates in competitions within its own fields of study. Those students who do well in regional events can continue on to the state and national levels. V.I.C.A. at Newton North encourages leadership and provides participants with a means of learning about working in groups and of becoming influential members of the community.

Environmental

The Environmental Club is one of the most active clubs at NNHS. Every Thursday morning, itsmembers circulate the school collecting recycling boxes. Waste paper is put in these boxes throughout the week, and then the club takes the responsibility of having them recycled. Environmental club members painted blue plastic trash cans to look like popular beverages and placed them on Main Street to recycle the many aluminum soda and juice cans which are emptied during the day by students.

The goal of the Animal Rights Club is to educate people about animal right abuses. The Animal Rights Club accomplished their goal through an Animal Rights Day and appearing on the news program "Chronicle."

The Animal Rights Club targeted Gillette as a local company unnecessarily testing on animals, a "Boycott Gillette" campaign ensued. A protest was planned against Gillette's treatment of animals. Their first amendment rights were challenged by Gillette over the protest. The company tried to pressure Newton North officials into suppressing the club from protesting. The protest was postponed because of misinterpreted information. However, The Animal Rights Club had their protest on February 9.

"This squad is definately the best team I have ever coached."
-Coach Janice Mazzola

The 1994 Cheerleading team set team goals rather than the individual goals previous squads have held. After working hard in preseason and learning their competition routine, the team began to realize that unity and trust were keys to their success.

During the fall season, the Cheerleaders practiced endless hours in preparation for their weekly pep rallies and Saturday afternoon football games. In addition to cheering for the football team, the Cheerleaders worked hard to prepare for their own competitions.

The Tigers placed third at the annual Crusader Invitational at Peabody High School and second at the Emmanuel College Invitational. The Cheerleaders encountered a disappointing fourth place finish in the Bay State League Competition. "We finally got to the level of Framingham by tying them at Bay States," said co-captain Nicole Capello, but this didn't change their goal to place in the State Competition. The Newton North Cheerleaders unfortunately did not finish at the State Competition.

"This squad is definitely the best team I have ever coached. They worked hard together to compete at the level of powerhouses like Framingham and Norwood," said coach Janice Mazzola. "Their dedication made my job much easier."

Prior to the Thanksgiving Day game the Cheerleaders hosted the first annual Spirit Rally in which the senior class was victorious. It was a fulfilling moment for the Cheerleaders, football team and their coaches as the entire school came together and displayed school spirit..

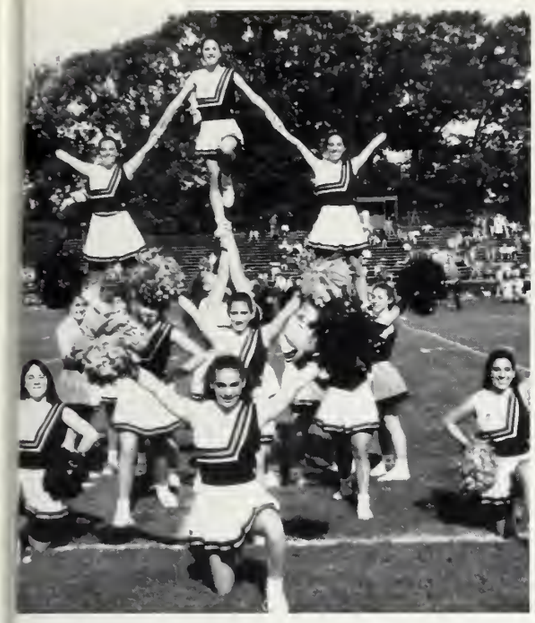

As a team, the Tigers formed strong friendships and trust with one another. Throughout the season, the Tigers maintained a healthy attitude toward competition. Senior Nadia Tramontozzi put it best when she said, "winning isn't everything, victory is knowing that you've done the best."

Senior Lisa Goldman was selected as first team All-star and senior Julie Eshelman as second team All-star.

The Cheerleading season does not end in the Fall but continues through April. Four varsity members left and were replaced by five new members. After the Bay State dissappointment and the tragedy at the State Competition, the girls were even more determined to achieve their goals. During the Winter season the Tigers cheered-on the varsity basketball team, but practice was more geared toward preparing the new members for upcoming Competitions. Captains of the Winter squad were seniors Amy Murphy and Beth O'Hare.

"We were a very close team, one of the best in that respect because all members knew each other."
-Senior Gordon Roble

The Newton North Men's Cross-country team suffered from loss of seniors who were part of the Bay State League championship team. The only returning varsity runner was captain Gordon Roble. Despite these changes, the team had a strong rebuilding season.

The Tigers started off the season undefeated but encountered tougher teams that shook the morale of the entire team. The turning point of the season came after a disappointing loss to an equally strong Brookline team. The Tigers were able to look beyond the regular season and concentrate on proving their abilities during the post-season.

Roble had a very successful individual season and said that the team as a whole "produced a much better season than supposed to." Senior Pete Flynn won seven of the team's eleven meets this season, and represented Newton North at the State meet. "Pete qualifying for States was a highlight of our season because nobody has represented North in about seven years," said Roble. Coach James Blackburn said, "Peter and Gordon were very strong but after them we were a bit inconsistent."

Senior Peter Flynn is a first year runner who exemplified the dedication of a veteran and brought about great results for his team. Although beyond the three seniors, Roble, Flynn and Andrew Port, the team was inexperienced, Roble said, "we were a very close team, one of the best in that respect because all members knew each other."

Their lack of depth hurt the team this season but the juniors have a lot of promise according to Roble. Overall, the Tigers finished sixteenth at the Class A State meet. Senior Andrew Port, juniors Dan Berwick, Josh Shapiro, and Chris Vanderwarker and sophomore Mohammed Reza competed in the 3.1-mile varsity race at the Bay State Conference meet.

"The Bay State Conference meet was a highlight of our season because we defeated teams that beat us during the season, like Brookline and Natick," Roble said. "I wasn't surprised that our improvement showed through."

Flynn's sole representation in the State meet overshadowed his performance. Flynn and Roble placed in the top ten in the Bay State League and were named All-stars.

"This year's team completely overwhelmed the entire state."
-Coach Peter Martin

This year's Women's Cross-country team put forth a great amount of effort to continue a victorious tradition. Finishing with an 11-0 record, the Tigers were first in the Bay State League. They also placed first in the Bay State Invitational, first in the Class A division meet, and first overall in the state.

"This year's team completely overwhelmed the entire state," said head coach Peter Martin. "They were a close knit, diverse team with a broad blend of talent."

Tri-captain Martha Holt was named an All-Star as well as Ursula Wing, juniors Rebecca Udler and Susan Duncombe, sophomore Senta Burton and freshman Liz Aronin. "Our team really came together and rose above the competition," said Holt.

Other key runners of the season were tri-captains Johanna Morrissey and Ling Chan. The team looks to have a promising future due to the outstanding freshman class.

The key to winning a meet lies more in how the second, third, fourth and fifth place runners perform rather than just the first runner, and that is where this year's team found success. "Our twentieth athlete is superior to any other team's twentieth athlete," said Martin. "We were successful because of their cooperation; the runners made it work." This cooperation was needed in order to win their toughest meet: the Walpole dual meet. "Every runner was needed and they were committed to giving their all," said Martin, whose team squeaked by a great Walpole team 25-36.

Another factor that affected the team's outstanding performance was the leadership of the three captains. "They showed great leadership. An example was injured Martha Holt who exemplified team above self by working extra hard to recooperate." Martin said.

Summing up the season tri-captain Johanna Morrissey said, "This years team knew how to have a laugh, all our personalities melded together." This unity allowed the Women's Cross-country team to win the Class A meet by an unprecedented one hundred points.

The team finished first in the state ahead of cross-town rival Newton South. Sophomore Senta Burton was named an All-scholastic and Peter Martin was named Globe's Coach of the year.

"We overcame our problems by becoming familiar with our offensive strategy."

-SeniorAudrey Cedrone

Through high spirits and hard work, the 1994 Newton North Field Hockey team compensated for their disappointing record. This season was a rebuilding period for the team because of the loss of fifteen seniors.

Co-captains Audrey Cedrone and Melissa Perry, were very pleased with the dramatic improvements made since the beginning of the season in August. Despite much hard work and frustration, the team was able to "work together and improve individual skills, which was one of the team's main goals," said co-captain Melissa Perry. Senior Lauren Sudeall played an excellent season as the team's goalie, as did offensive player Emily Balasa. Cedrone and Perry did an outstanding job to keep the team unified, finishing the season with a record of 1-10-4.

During the first half of the season, the Tigers concentrated on learning the logistics of the game, specifically offensive skills. "Our problem was our lack of scoring goals," said captain Audrey Cedrone. "We overcame our problems by becoming familiar with our offensive strategy." During the second half of the season the Field Hockey players performed more offensively than defensively. "Our defense was pretty consistent throughout the season," said Cedrone.

In addition, both captains cited Lauren Coletti, Nicole Leone, and Meghan Finn as potential leaders of the team next season. All players, as well as Coach Celeste Meyers "anticipate an exciting and successful season next year." "We expect a lot more results next year as the team takes their play to the next level," said Cedrone.

"We came into the Natick game realizing our potential and throughout the game we fully used it, playing up to Natick. Goalkeeper Lauren Sudeall saved a stroke, one of the most difficult shots in the game," said senior co-captain Melissa Perry.

All in all, the Tigers are a very young team with only nine seniors graduating, so we can expect more results for the team in the future.

"Shutting out Walpole on their home field was the greatest feeling because it showed our critics what our team already knew: the fact that we are a 'legit' Football squad."

-Senior Matt Hayes

Coaches: Michael Coppola, Pete Capodilupo and Carl Pockwinse
Captains: Mike Mitchell and Nathan Busa

Newton North Football had its best season in seventeen years led by the spectacular play of Bay State League All-stars Nathan Busa, Mike Engel, Todd McNamara and Paris Wilkey.

North started off the season with a commanding (42-6) win over Framingham. "The Framingham win was important because we were expecting the game to be close. When we dominated the game like we did, it showed our team how powerful we could be this year," said quarterback Mike Engel.

"Every year our goal is to have a winning season," said coach Peter Capodilupo. The winning came as Newton rolled over Braintree and Dedham. At 3-0 the Tigers went to Wellesley, then the tenth ranked team in the state. Although the Tigers lost (28-14), the game was a major motivator for the rest of the season. "The feeling of defeat was so painful that it inspired our team to play better and work harder so we would never have to face that feeling again," said lineman Joe Nolan. The Tiger's second defeat came at the hands of the Brookline Warriors on Thanksgiving day.

The highlight of the season came during this five game winning streak when the Tigers defeated fourth ranked Walpole (21-0). "Shutting out Walpole on their home field was the greatest feeling because it showed our critics what our team already knew: the fact that we are a 'legit' Football squad," said senior Matt Hayes.

According to co-captain Nathan Busa, "hard work in the off season" and "playing like a bunch of animals" were the reasons North was able to overcome their lack of size and continue to win. "Busa and co-captain Mike Mitchell revealed themselves as strong leaders who understood the unforgiving nature and joy of the game," said Capodilupo. "Every team has its uniqueness, but it was a priveledge to coach these captains as well as their classmates," he said.

The Tigers ended their season ranked fourteenth in the state and second in the Bay State League. Busa and McNamara were named All-Scholastics.

"This team was easy to coach because they were all close friends and gave each other lots of support and encouragement."

-Coach Jerry Phillips

Despite the fact that the Newton North Golf team lost five valuable players this past year, they managed to pull together and finish with a record of 7-5-1. With only three seniors: Brian Engler, Andy Marchand and captain James Cain, the young team had to work harder than ever to keep up. Coach Jerry Philips said, "I saw a steady improvement in this young team."

"Coming off last year's strong team, I was surprised at the great outcome of this year's new and unexperienced team," commented captain James Cain on the teams second place finish in the Bay State League.

The Golf team used a different format this year. Every shot counted in the new stroke play and the best six scores were totaled to match their opponents'. Team depth was essential this year. Expectations weren't as high as they were last year. That team also missed the state tournament. "We had real team depth this year but lacked consistency," said senior Brian Engler. "If one person played badly it could hurt the team unlike last year when you could shake off a poorly played hole."

The high point of the Tiger's season was avenging a loss against league winning Brookline. Phillips said, "This team was easy to coach because they were all close friends and gave each other lots of support and encouragement."

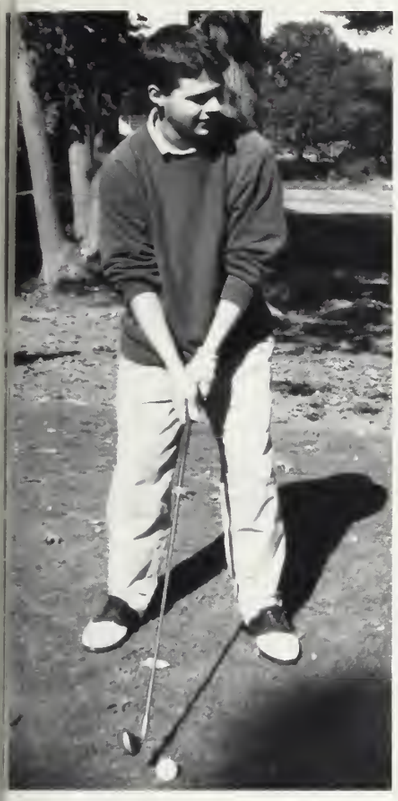

Another big surprise this year was Junior Tim Pitts, who shot an 82 in the Bay State League match and placed fifth. Pitts and Cain were Bay State League All-stars.

Though this year was definitely a struggle, the Tigers never gave up and managed to pull through with a record to be proud of. By never losing their enthusiasm, the team fought for every match and recovered quickly after each loss. Only three seniors are graduating so there will be many great maturing players next Fall.

The 1994 Men's Soccer team had one of the most successful seasons Newton North soccer gurus have ever witnessed. Not only did the team post its first undefeated season in twenty years, but it also reached a sixth place ranking in the state.

"Even at the start of the season we saw we had a good team. Each day we knew what we had to do: stay undefeated, win the Bay State League title, and keep playing at a high level," said senior David Decew, a co-captain.

Numerous highlights including wins against rivals such as Wellesley (3-0) and Framingham (2-0), sparked the Tiger's season. These wins helped to propel the team to their first appearance in the state polls.

"Beating Wellesley really started the season out on a good note. We were unranked going into the game, and it showed people just how we could play," said senior Dan Pozen, a co-captain with Decew.

Early in the season, the Tigers established an effective game plan of wearing out their opponents and capitalizing in the second half. Coach John DiMambro's move of Pozen to the sweeper position and Decew to the play maker position solidified the team and gave the younger players the opportunity to excel in game play.

Pozen, Decew, goalkeeper Noah Stockman, and junior Geoff Walker were named to the Bay State League first team All-stars. Sophomore Cleyson Cypriano and junior Pat Rowe made the second team. DiMambro also praised Tom Smith, Matt Dias and Ken Doucette for their consistent play in the midfield, and senior Garret Colgan-Snyder as a great first year contributor and "outstanding defender."

The Tigers were seeded third in the South Sectionals and had a very prosperous tournament appearance. Propelled by early wins against Greater New Bedford (2-1), and Xaverian (2-1), the Tigers went into the third round against the number two seed, Weymouth, with hopes to upset. Unfortunately, Weymouth scored seconds into the game; and, although the Tigers controlled most of the remaining play and out shot their opponents' 7-6, a win just wasn't in their cards.

"They didn't give up any opportunities and we were unable to control their early explosiveness," remarked DiMambro. "I think every player was pleased with what we accomplished this season. It was a bittersweet ending to a very exciting and productive season."

Winning the first round of the tournament pulled the team together because no one on the team had won a tournament game for Newton North Soccer before.

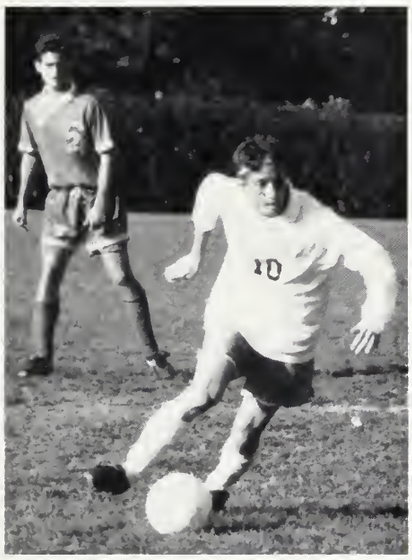

Pozen added, "The awesome fan support we got during the tournament and being recognized among the elite added even more to the statistics."

"It was a bittersweet ending to a very productive season."

The 1994 Newton North Girls Soccer team had no trouble fulfilling the lofty expectations layed upon them at the beginning of the season. Led by a steady and talented bunch of seniors, the Tigers attained a #2 national ranking during the preseason and were consistently voted the #1 team in the Eastern Mass. polls. From the outset, captains Eliza Meade and Kathryn Barrows set distinct goals for their squad and were able to achieve nearly every one of them.

Despite plaguing injuries to key seniors Leigh Summers, Rebecca Epstein, Louise Baker and Eliza Meade, the Tigers were able to finish the season with a superb record of 17-1-4 and earned a trip to the south sectional finals where they finally bowed out to an excellent Marshfield team in a heart-breaking shoot-out loss.

The team began the season by winning their first ten games. Led by the extraordinary offensive skills of scoring leaders Jessica Williams and Kristen Cannistraro and with the the defensive toughness of Michele Savage, April Rasala, and Lara Peterson along with great goalkeeping by Kim Visco, the Tigers continued the long tradition of success that has become deservedly associated with Newton North Soccer.

During the tournament, the Tigers played the best soccer of the season. Co-captain Eliza Meade said, "even though we won in overtime, our game against Plymouth North was the best we've played all season. It all came together nicely because we knew it was a crucial game."

After twenty-three years of coaching, T.J. Williams said that "of all the teams I've had at Newton North, this year's team had the best overall chemistry and that translated into a successful season."

Seniors Jessica Williams, Michele Savage and April Rasala were named to the Eastern Mass. All-star team, and Eliza Meade, Kathryn Barrows and Kristen Cannistraro joined them as Bay State League All-stars. The Tigers' invaluable depth allowed them to enjoy a brand of success unparalleled in all of Massachusetts.

"The 1994 Girls Soccer team not only carried on the tradition of success at Newton North High School, they accelerated it to yet another echelon," said coach Williams. This team personifies the pride of Newton North.

"Next year there will be many spots to fill due to the amount of seniors on the team, but we have a good, large team..."
-Asst. Coach Chris "Doc" Jones

Despite their third place finish in the Bay State League behind Natick and Needham, the 7-2 Newton North Swimming and Diving team had a very successful season under the guidance of coach Kirsten Tuohy.

The highlight of the season was their victory over long-time rival Wellesley 98-88. According to senior Sarah Griffin, for many seniors this was the best win in the past four years, especially since the Tigers hadn't beaten Wellesley in seventeen years..

"Mentally, Wellesley's always been a meet that we've been psyched up for, but we've never won. This year, depth was the key," said senior Andrea Slate, a captain.

The swimming squad is represented by a large amount of swimmers from each grade. Rachael Quebec, a captain with Slate, Becky Berman and Meghan Grantham, said that every member of the team made a contribution. "The team was really strong. Spirit was carried by all four grades," Quebec added.

"Next year there will be many spots to fill due to the amount of seniors on the team, but we have a good, large team, so we're looking for people to improve a lot." said assistant Coach Chris Jones.

The Tigers' only two defeats in 1994 came to the Bay State leaders, Natick and Needham. According to Griffin, the loss to Needham was disappointing, "The meet could have gone either way, but we gave it our best shot." The Needham Rockets defeated the Tigers 90-95.

The Tigers sent an impressive 12 swimmers to sectionals and 8 to the State meet, and 3 members were named League All-stars for this season: Slate, Quebec and junior Amy Linsenmayer.

"My team goal this season was to train a team that by the end of the season was able to play legitimate power volleyball, and by the end of the season they were able to play at that level."

-Coach Richard Burton

The Women's Volleyball team had a rough start this season but because of hard work and strong rebuilding, they finished with a record of 7-9. The four senior captains, Grace Bae, Abby Holm, Stefanie Liang and Cristina Rudden, led the Tigers in a season of optimism.

"My team goal this season was to train a team that by the end of the season was able to play legitamate power volleyball, and by the end of the season they were able to play at that level," stated coach Richard Barton.

"This was a year of rebuilding; it took us awhile to put all the pieces together," said Barton. The team had a hard start due to the loss of many of last year's starters. The only returning starter on this year's team was senior Stefanie Liang. According to Barton, training a new, young team was difficult due to the many positions and strategies that the new team had to adopt. The team's main contributors were the four captains and also senior Sara Weiss, sophomore Trevin Lau and juniors Suzanne Chan and Marcia Neiberg. "As a completely new team on the court, we were faced with the task of re-adjusting our strategies and learning to get to know each others' abilities in order to be successful," commented Liang.

During the later part of the season, the Tigers found themselves playing "serious, cohesive volleyball," as Barton had hoped. "By the end of the season the girls were playing real volleyball and using correctly developed skills," said Barton.

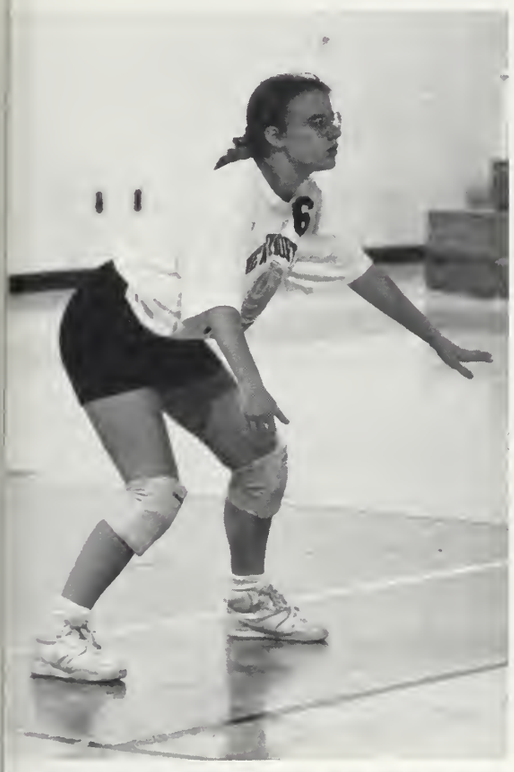

A highlight of the season occured when the Tigers beat Framingham, who had previously defeated the Tigers. With victory in mind, the Tigers later defeated Framingham (14-16) (15-4) (15-7), knocking them out of their first place position in the league.

All in all the Tiger volleyball team finished strongly. If the team played all season with the level of intensity that they possessed toward the end of the season, they would have been unstoppable. Coach Barton said, "Next year I expect a strongly conditioned team." The Tigers will have to work hard to compensate the loss of the many graduating key players. Barton also stated that his major goal this season was not to win a title, but to have a team that was capable of playing strong volleyball by season's end; and that's just what he ended his season with. "We worked really hard this year" said Stefanie Liang. "We really improved as a team." Stefanie Liang and Abby Holm were Bay State League All-stars.

The Newton North Boy's Basketball team finished with a strong record of 14-6 in the regular season, despite losing a plethora of seniors last year. Bay State League All-stars Todd McNamara and Adam Manchester lead an explosive North squad.

Co-captains David DeCew and Miki Alroy were major contributors to the teams success with their consistency and intensity. North also had one of the deepest benches in the league, going twelve men deep. According to DeCew, "Depth was our teams best asset. Anyone could step up and play well." Often this was the case, with juniors Pat Rowe, Tom Smith, Rashad Drayton, Danny O'Haire, and sophomore Aaron Joseph all playing clutch at one time or another during the season.

North kicked off the season by playing cross town rivals Newton South in the Waltham tournament. North picked apart the highly touted South team by running the break well and crashing the boards, which, according to senior Ben Tishler, were North's strengths on the basketball court. Following this win North went on to start the season 6-0 as well as win the Waltham tournament.

One of the highlights of the season was when North clinched the Bay State Carey Division Title with a win over Needham with just two more games left in the season. It was the first time ever that North solely had won the Bay State Carey, as they had shared the title with Brookline last year.

North received a bye in the first round of the state tournament and met Barnstable in the second round. North held Barnstable's leading scorer in check thanks to a tenacious defensive effort by McNamara and went on to win the game 68-66. In the third round of the tournament the Tigers finally faced defeat in overtime at the hands of North Attleboro. The loss hardly overshadowed the success of the team. North was a volatile team this year, and at times their explosiveness and abundance of talent was difficult to handle. but they all had a great respect for the game and one another which was evident on the court.

Although the Newton North Women's Basketball team had a struggling year, their enthusiasm prevailed and kept them motivated when it counted the most. Coach Irene Cucina-Clancy said that beating Wellesley by a point early in the season was a definite highlight of the season, also winning the North Quincy Invitational Tournament for the third consecutive year.

A significant example of the team's hard work was during their home game aginst Braintree. Early in the season the Tigers lost to the Womps by nearly fifty points but during their home game the Tigers pulled together, but lost by only three points. "It was a big game for us, emotionally, to earn our respect, and we did," said co-captain Kim Visco.

It was in this game that Visco scored her 1,000th point of her career, a feat only two have done prior to her. "Kim scoring her 1,000th point was a highlight of my coaching career," added Cucina-Clancy.

"A big disappointment this year was losing to Newton South and Brookline, twice," noted Cucina-Clancy. "The kids worked hard but showed inconsistencies due to inexperience."

As a whole the team improved tremendously. "They were a young group of girls who still need to work on their self-confidence," said Cucina-Clancy. "We beat ourselves, other teams didn't beat us."

Only two seniors will be graduating from this year's team: co-captains Visco and Caroline Doherty. "We have extremely successful subvarsity levels, we hope to suprise many teams and be very competitive next season," commented Cucina-Clancy.

With a final record of 9-11 the Tigers walk away from the season with the respect that they deserved. Visco was named a Bay State League All-star and said that the overall lesson of the season was to learn the importance of team work and how important it is for twelve players to play as one.

The 1994-1995 Newton North Men's Gymnastics team proved to be an impressive force not only within the Bay State League but also a powerhouse at the state level.

Returning gymnasts brought strength to this year's team. The Tigers were led by senior co-captains Adam Helfet-Hilliker and Brian Langan. They paced the team to an unexpected second place in the state, the highest Newton North has ever achieved in Men's Gymnastics.

According to Langan, "No one thought we could do as well as we did. It felt great to prove our ability to everyone, especially ourselves." "Our spirit was our strength," said Langan.

The teams peak at States can be attributed to the key performances of many individuals including that of Ginggi Storer, chosen as an All-American after his first place in the all-around at the League meet and seven medals, including a second place at States with a 50.65. Langan was selected for the National team and placed an impressive third on pummel horse at the State meet with a score of 6.6. Helfet-Hilliker also placed during the league meet on pummel horse and junior Ed Cardenas placed on parallel bars.

Despite plaguing injuries throughout the season, the team was in top form for the important meets. "We were thrilled with the outcome of the season," remarked Helfet-Killiker. "Overall it was an amazing experience with a great bunch of guys."

Coach David Simkins praised Cardenas as "the ironman throughout the season" and Helfet-Hilliker for "giving the team a real boost." He added that the team peaked at the right time.

The Tigers 3-5 record does not truely reflect the strength of this year's squad, according to anyone who witnessed their performances. "During the season our scores didn't always reflect our ability," said coach Simkins.

Over 30 people showed up for the Women's Gymnastics team on the first day of practice, a first for the team in many years. Most of this unusually large number of people did not have any experience in competitive gymnastics, but that did not hold back these tigers. "It was really encouraging to see so many people," said co-captain Jessica Williams. The team finished 1-10, winning their first meet in the last two seasons.

One of the primary goals during meets was to have final scores over 100 points and they accomplished this on every meet except for one. "We had the highest score this year than the past few years," said Williams. "We thought much better of this season."

This year's Tigers excelled even more on team unity. They organized their daily practices so they could get the most training out of their two and a half hours of practice time They learned how to bond together as a group and support each other in every aspect of the sport, regardless of level of ability. Williams added that the team seems to have a very good base for future success.

Though this season had many noteworthy accomplishments, the team was disappointed with their showing against Brookline in the season finale. "We had a chance to win the Brookline meet if we were at full strength," commented Williams. The team experienced a setback as two key contributors, freshman Jessica Ferguson and Stephanie Keefe, were injured.

In the league meet, Williams was awarded 6th place on vault and co-captain Julie Eshelman took 6th place on the uneven bars.

"Not winning didn't show our team's effort," Williams said. "For a team that doesn't practice all year round, our gymnasts did well and continued to improve."

Finishing with an 18-3-1 record, the Bay State Conference title, and a berth in the Super 8 Division 1A Tournament, the ice hockey team has met their goals for the season, said senior Doug Dunn. We had a great season," Dunn said. "The best part though was that we were like a family. We all got along and we were all friends, and that helped in practices and in games."

Senior Mike Mitchell, a co-captain with Dunn, cited senior leadership as a major factor in the team's success. The Tigers were the highest ranked public school for much of the season. Coach Jack Heavey praised his team all season and relies on the entire team for strength. "Younger players helped us when we needed them, I look to our bench, and think we can outwork [our opponents]."

"All the senior's really contributed this year," Mitchell said. "Mark Kaufman, Doug Dunn, Andy Pettit, Matt Kuronen, and the rest of the seniors played a major role on the team."

The low point of the season for Dunn and Mitchell was the two losses in the Super 8 tourney, one at the Boston Garden and one at B.C. in which the Tigers lost in double overtime.

Joining Dunn and Mitchell on the Bay State League All-star team were Kuronen, Pettit, senior Mike Panaggio, and juniors Marc Albano, Danny Doucette, Tony McGaughey, Mike Tobin, and sophomore Matt Ogg. Mitchell was the Bay State League's Most Valuable Player. Victory's over Woburn and Framingham and a tie against Arlington were high points in the season.

Those were big games for us," Dunn said. "It put us in good shape for the end of the season. Because of those games, the loss to Framingham at the end of the regular season didn't hurt our chances to get in the Super 8. If we lost one or two of those games we might not have made it to the tourney."

Dunn and Mitchell cited McGaughey as a major surprise for the Tigers. "Tony played great for us," Dunn said. "In the beginning of the season, we didn't know how he was going to be, but he has played tremendously for us."

"...this years team was the most challenging and rewarding... everyoneworked hard, swam well and contributed to the success of the team."

-Tri-captain Sean Galliher

This year, the Men's Swimming Team began the season with no ideas of how the team would compete against other teams. With the capable coaching of both Chris 'Doc' Jones and assistant Matthew Goldberg the team made strong showings in all of it's meets, and ended the year with an impressive 4-1 league record and an overall record of 8-1.

The main reasons for such a successful season were the many contributions from everyone on the team. Although key swimmers for the tigers this year were seniors Sean Galliher, Greg Mirshevsky and David Pinkowitz, junior Mike Holczer, and freshman Ido Gabay, all the swimmers played a big part in the team's achievements.

Even though the team's goal was to end the season undefeated, the Men's Swimming team still made much improvement from last years team. The seasons only loss came to a powerful Brookline High School team. Though the loss came as a disappointment, it did not effect the team's performance in the next meet. The team was more determined then ever and wanted to swim their best.

In the Bay State Conference meet, the Tigers made a convincing showing and finished second behind Brookline. Proving their strength as a team, the Tigers were represented by ten members in this years sectionals. Qualifying for the Tigers in this years sectionals were: Sean Galliher in the 100, Greg Mirchevsky in the 50 and the 100, junior Rob English in the 50, Mike Holczer in the 500, junior Mark Neavyn in the relays, sophomore Ben Meyer in diving, sophomore Jake Ni in the 100 butterfly, freshman Ido Gabay in the 100 breaststroke and the 200 individual medley, freshman Wes Goldstone in the 100 backstroke, and freshman Willie Magruder in the relays.

This years League All-stars were seniors Sean Galliher, Greg Mirchevsky, Mike Holczer and Ido Gabay.

According to senior tri-captain Sean Galliher, "this year was the most challenging and rewarding both personally and as a team, everyone worked hard, swam well and contributed to the success of the team."

"I have never before coached a team where everybody improved so much."
-Coach James Blackburn

Men's Indoor Track had a season filled with achievements, personal bests, and most of all improvements. With a record of 5-2-0 it's easy to prove the achievements, but the improvement came slow and steadily through out the season.

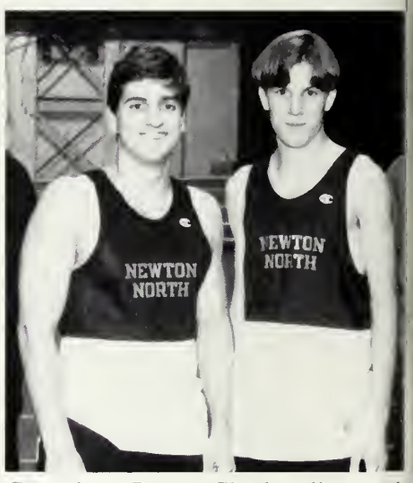

With team co-captains Deron Charkoudian and Gordon Roble as key contributors, the team found itself on the road to success. According to Charkoudian the biggest success came against Walpole when the Tigers defeated Walpole with a score of 64-21. "The hardest competition came against Brookline," said Charkoudian. "I was pleased with how well we did, early on in September I didn't think we'd get as far as we did."

Key contributers for the Tigers were seniors Paris Wilkey, Adam Carpenter, Andrew Port and Dan Pozen. Other contributers include Dan Berwick, Ari King, Charlie Blumenthal, Geoff Walker and Jason Montrose. Key events for the Tigers were the high jump and shot put said coach James Blackburn. Charkoudian agreed with this by saying "The shot-put was important to all the meets. When we won the shot-put; we won the meets."

After the season ended the Tigers competed in the State Class A meet finishing second in the 4X800. They also placed second in the 4X800 in the All State meet.

Four runners placed third in the New Englands held at Harvard: Charlie Blumenthal, Dan Berwick, Gordon Roble and Peter Flynn. " They are great athletes, who put themselves through two weeks of grueling practices after the season was over to get prepared," prasied Blackburn.

The Tigers had a season reliant on team work and practice. With a season record of 5-2, the Tigers all agreed they had surpassed their preliminary goals and expectations for the season. " I have never before coached a team where everybody improved so much," commented Blackburn.

"Sometimes people take winning for granted, but this year every race we took seriously, we were happy about every win," said senior Johanna Morrissey, a captain.

It was a huge team, bigger than it's ever been. All the freshman worked hard, and though it was tough to control it all worked out in the end, according to quad-captain Carey Brew. "We had such depth and such a good team that it was hard for everyone to get attention."

This depth led the Tigers to a flawless 7-0 record and the Bay State League title. The Tigers were ranked No. 2 in the state behind a talented Falmouth team.

League All-stars include junior Meaghan McCue in the 50, senior Kathryn Barrows in the 1,000, sophomore Senta Burton in the mile, the two-mile relay team, and junior Andrea Zytkovicz in the shot-put. The two-mile relay team consisting of Barrows, juniors Nina Rubin and Rebecca Udler and Burton took first at the State meet.

"We had a very young team with 35 freshmen," commented coach Joe Tranchita who said that as a whole the team went beyond expectations. "The freshman gave energy to the team, worked together and really carried the team," added Martha Holt, another captain. "They will definitely carry the team in the coming year."

The captains all cited the freshmen participation as being a highlight but Brew added their victory at the State Relay meet because they defeated Falmouth.

"The team worked really well together, even with the size," commented Holt. There was a bit of rebuilding especially with sprinters, but their performances proved that they came together well.

Overall the Tigers worked well together and accomplished a great deal under the leadership of Tranchita, senior Jenica Dover and the other three captains. Few members will be graduating but it is obvious that the younger runners will soon take over and succeed.

The Tigers Men's Wrestling team finished the season with an impressive 14-5 record, winning all of their last ten meets.

According to coach Marty Lynch the Tiger's successes included "placing second in the West Roxbury tournament, fourth in the Woburn invitational tournament and fourth in the division one sectionals."

Coach Lynch cited the leadership of senior tri-captains Garrett Colgan-Snyder, Peter Flynn and Josh Wise as a key to the team's success.

Colgan-Snyder felt that "the year was pleasantly surprising" because they had finally become "a tough team." "We had an amazing number of pins and achieved the standard set by every team since my freshman year." he added.

Colgan-Snyder, Flynn and Wise agreed the highlight of the season was winning their last ten consecutive meets. "There were really only one or two teams that were better then us. The other losses came early in the season. In our last ten meets, we showed how much we had developed, and the strength of the team," said Flynn.

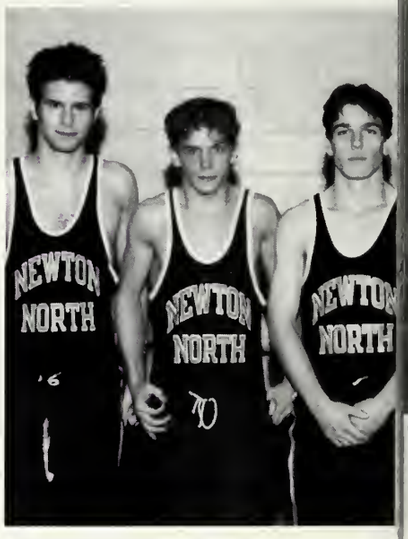

Wise who finished second in the 160 pound weight class in the division one state meet, fifth in the all-state tournament, was the first Newton North wrestler to compete in the New England tournament. "Only the core of the wrestling team is able to survive the rigorous season and to me it is those kids who really make up the team."

Others competing well for the Tigers were Joe Finch, who was sixth in division one in the 119 pound weight class and Tim Grady who was the sectional champ as a heavyweight.

Lynch, who is hopeful about next year, said that since he is "only losing three starting seniors," he is "looking forward to doing bigger and better things with a good group of juniors." He also cited freshmen Dan Keshet, Eric Travers and Evan Apfelbaum as promising for the future,

"In our last ten meets, W showed how much we had de veloped, and the strength o our team."

There may not be Major League Baseball but coach Joe Siciliano has his squad ready to play. No Barry Bonds, Ken Griffey Jr. or Roger Clemens but the Tigers have Andy Pettit, David Decew and Mark Grabowski.

"This year should be a good one based on the number of returning players," said David Decew. Senior leadership will be helpful coach sis due to the number of interested players.

"This year should be a productive one. We have a great balance of players from freshmen to seniors. Our goal is to make the tournament and see what happens from there," comments senior Rob Cerra. "The last two years we've been eliminated after the first round. This year I think we have the depth on the pitching staff to go deeper in the tournament.

Decew agreed saying that doing well in the tournament is very possible.

The Tigers have a difficult schedule ahead of them this year with opponents like Milton and Walpole, but with all the depth and consistency from returning players the team aims to be very successful.

—Coach Bussy Adam

Winning the State Championship is the main goal of the Men's Lacrosse team, said coach Bussy Adam.

"Our chemistry is good this season," Adam said. "We have a good balance between the sophomore, junior and senior classes and have a positive attitude and outlook on the season."

Adam cited the midfield as the strength of the team, saying that "they have the potential to be a high scoring, potent offense with the depth that they have.

"The key to our overall success though, is if our defensive players come together and play as one unit, and our senior attack players work to develop the underclassmen."

With most of the team playing in the Newton Recreation Lacrosse Winter League, Adam said they came ready to play in the preseason.

With the combination of the winter league and the overall success of the other Newton North sports programs, such as hockey, football and basketball, we have a very talented group of athletes whose success should carry over onto the lacrosse field."

"We are focusing on team bonding so we can be friends both on and off the field."

The women's lacrosse team lost five seniors from last years squad only two of which were starters. The team returns some experienced players including two very strong goalies in Kim Visco and Nicole Fanelli, a co-captain, whose defensive efforts will be assisted by senior Caroline Doherty and junior Caitlin Ritchie. Also, co-captain Louise Baker and all-american Kathryn Barrows are expected to contribute on offense, with the help of senior Eliza Meade and junior Becca Minaker playing the homes.

Coach Irene Cucina-Clancy looks forward to the season because "We have a strong nucleus of returning players, so we are seeking to have a strong league performance."

"We are focusing on team bonding so we can be friends both on and off the field. Some goals that we have already set for this season are to beat Longmeadow and to perform well enough in the Bay State Carey division to make tournament." said co-captain and starting goalie Nicole Fanelli.

"With hard work on basic skills such as cradling and ground ball pick-ups, we will be able to dominate both in the air and on the ground which will lead to a successful season." said Cucina-Clancy.

With seven returning members from last year's team the Women's Softball team is looking forward to a great season. Coach Dick Fletcher is moving from the classroom to the diamond as he does each spring.

Captains Amy Murphy and Lauren Coletti head a roster packed with talent including Emily Balasa and Lauren Chandra. "This season may be more of a rebuilding one considering all the talent that graduated," said senior Emily Balasa. Talent does remain on the field this season and the Tigers hope to strongly compete in the league this season. "We have a lot of potential this year," comments junior Leah Furst.

Last year the Tigers lost in the first round of the tournament and to go farther this year, "We need to keep our spirits high and stay motivated throughout the season," said Furst.

There is a lot of unexpected potential on the team this year which will be mostly comprised of juniors. There are two seniors on the team so look for more strong teams in the future.

"We are still very strong from last year, but we need to develop the new players and learn to play as a team," Furst added.

"I'd put money on this team's success!"
-Coach Phil Goldberg

Captains: Ben Tishler and Adam Gerson

With bold new, bright orange shirts to intimidate, or at least blind, opposing players, the mighty boys tennis team hopes to recapture the Bay State Conference title and do damage in the Division 1 state tournament.

Last year, the Tigers inexplicably lost their only regular season match, and the league, to an upstart Needham team, but redeemed themselves by overwhelming the Rockets in the South Section finals, advancing to the state semis.

The team has lost some key players (JB)to graduation and relocation, but the traditionally strong tennis program will not disappoint this year. Disciplined off-season work, involving the latest in aerodynamic technology has prepared the 1995 squad for anything Needham, Brookline, Natick or non-league powerhouses will serve up.

Senior captains Adam Gerson, a doubles specialist, and Ben Tishler, a versatile wunderkind, carry the team on their shoulders.

These two organized the orange shirt maneuver, an initiative which has already earned them job offers from Vogue and GQ. But Tishler, who habitually wears socks up to his knees, maintains he takes a practical approach to athletic attire.

Single players include juniors Jon Temin and David Tuchmann, two feisty players who have enhanced their games by locating their inner children. An experienced listener can discern that Temin's grunts now come from the depths of his subconscious. This psychological edge means trouble for less in-touch Bay State competitors.

Sophomore Travis St. Clair, of the big backhand, and junior Adam Oskowitz, of the big shorts, also figure to be important players for the Tigers.
Phil Goldberg returns to coach the Tigers. Ever confident in his charges, Goldberg said he'd put money on the team's success.

The 1995 Women's Tennis team aims for great things this season under the leadership of coach Jan Perkins. The team may not have obnoxious orange shirts but they are captained by Audrey Cedrone and Leslie Adelson.

"Speed will be essential with speedsters like junior Pat Rowe and senior Peter Flynn!"

-Captain Deron Charkoudian

It's a long road ahead!

Competitive running occurs all year round but Outdoor Track is one of the most exciting spectator events. Peter Flynn, Gordon Roble, Adam Carpenter and Deron Charkoudian hope to lead this year's Men's Track team to another successful season.

The Tigers rank among the state's best each year and should be no different in 1995. Speed will be essential with speedsters like junior Pat Rowe and senior Peter Flynn. Coach James Blackburn calls the shots as he did for Cross Country and Indoor Track.

The Tigers are a young team and will benefit from fine leadership and greatly improve this season.

"Captains set the pace"—Seniors Gordon Roble and Deron Charkoudian are in stride

"Follow the yellow brick road?"—Senior Stefanie Liang leads the way

As usual the Women's Track team will have an extremely large membership. So far that has meant success and coach Joe Tranchita has nothing else on his mind.

Six captains will help keep the upbeat underclassmen in their lanes as they again compete for the state title.

"A lot of new talent, a lot of freshman and a solid base in all events; a combination of these factors should result in a strong season," said senior Stephanie Bonadio, one of six captains.

There is much attention being brought to the size of the team because of the great depth that it associates. It sometimes overshadows the great strength and quality that the Tigers have as a whole.

"Who wouldn't be frightened by the likes of Josh Apgar, Ranen Schecner and Paul Freedman staring you down"
-Senior Jonathan Glazier

If you had been in stairway seven early in the spring sports season, you might have wondered why forty sweating boys were hopping up the stairs two at a time. They were members of the Newton North Men's Volleyball team, and they were trying to improve their vertical jump. Jumping high was very important to these players, because it enabled them to reach their hand above the net and smash a set down on the other side of the court at 90 miles per hour.

On other practice days, players would stand in corner of the gym with the rest of the team surrounding them in a semi-circle, pounding balls at them to develop reflexes. Tiger Volleyball players developed into control fanatics by the end of the season. They learned to perfect the exacting skills of passing and setting. Close games have the potential to hold fans in tremendous suspense. The serve can go back and forth with one team at game point and any mistake will mean the match.

This years team plays a hefty schedule with the likes of New Bedford and Brockton, but no matter who the Tigers will intimidate their opponents. "Who wouldn't be frightened by the likes of Josh Apgar, Ranen Schechner and Paul Freedman staring you down," says senior Jon Glazier. This season's motto of 'we'll pump you up' is strictly enforced by assistant. coach and personal trainer David Simkins. Head Coach Richard Barton hopes to lead the team to a very successful season.

Strong contributors this year will be Ben Keegan, James Apgar, Lucas Baker-Siroty, Luke McLoughlin on the court and Jon Glazier off the court. Who couldn't succeed with these combinations?

"How do you do that again?"—Senior Paul Freedman shows junior Luke Mcloughlin how to set

Captains: Paul Freedman, Josh Apgar and Ranen Schechner

Dear Leigh,

Although your talents are many in school, sports and music, we are most proud of your fine character. We are proud of your ability to work hard and give your best effort to all that you undertake and proud of your choices that you have made in your friendships and decisions. We are proud of your honesty, integrity, spirit, sense of humor, thoughtfulness and compassion. Thanks for the great times.

If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not,
you don't.
If you'd like to win, but you think you can't,
it's almost a cinch, you won't.
Life's battles don't always go to the stronger or faster person, but soon or late
the one who wins is the one who thinks they can.
And remember, the answer is in the question.

1995 Newtonian Colophon

The 1995 Newtonian's "theme" font was Palatino. We also used Times a lot, like in the portraits section. The headlines were mostly 48 point (except in sports because you can't render point size). We used Aldus Pagemaker 5.0, Microsoft word, Specular Texturescape (for the cool backgrounds), Infini-D and Adobe Illustrator/Photoshop. We used all of these programs on our fast, new Macintosh Quadra 630. Then, we printed everything out on our new LaserWriter Select 360. We spent 16,000 hours (or something like that) on the book.

We love: The Box, EffectsSpecialist headlines in Clubs, nifty 3-D text in sports, our "light table", soda can monuments, sMurphs and fevers, Col (oops) Cool Zone paraphernalia, the wall of fame, Ellen and our other "Friends", Myst, textblocks, continuity, umbrellas to keep out the responsibility, Murph's pocket, and our Meet the Editors poster. Though sometimes we felt stressed, sad, and apathetic, we had late night fun and homeroom bagels which made it all worthwhile.

Look out for: the flip book in sports which is viewed from back to front, the real athletes behind the scoreboards, Sierra White background, the poem on page one by Marco Muniz, the drawing on the portraits divider by Rich Busa, the camcorder clips on the Tiger Magazine page of clubs taken from a real episode, our funny captions, a picture that was taken at a low shutter speed which was turned into a photoshop file that was Neisterized and colored orange. It is entitled Main Street Motion and was taken by Jonathan Kastner.

We thank: The Neisty boy (a.k.a. John Neister), the patient custodians, Mr.Marini, all those who helped with the inside cover, people who placed ads, Jon Orren's blurb, Mr. Paul Shapiro, Dr. Ron Barndt, teachers who understood deadline pressures, Adam the computer whiz, Sirrus and Achenar, the State College tour guide with the long legs and the floral dress, our families, Mary and the kids, and of course our Papa SMurph for having "fun" with us — you are the best!

We learned a lot....but mostly we learned about ourselves. Catch the Fever!
